

YOUR TRUSTED PARTNER IN FSMA COMPLIANCE

Most food businesses – producers, growers, importers and transporters – must meet new FSMA guidelines covering everything from increased inspections, efficient recall management to greater importer food safety responsibility and accredited laboratories for testing. Fortunately, the food industry has a trusted partner well-versed in FSMA final rules and regulatory requirements.

For more than 70 years, NSF International has helped every segment of the food sector, from agriculture and processing to retail, navigate the constantly-evolving food safety and regulatory environment. Our industry experience, depth of knowledge and essential supporting documentation help our customers consistently meet and often exceed industry requirements.

NSF'S FSMA SERVICES INCLUDE:

- > Consulting Whether you need a detailed gap assessment, FSMA-ready document templates, in-depth consulting on FSMA preventive controls, supplier onboarding and approval, or supply chain traceability assistance, NSF's consulting team is ready to assist you.
- > Auditing FSMA readiness audits assist facilities in determining how to prepare for compliance. NSF audits cover all of the key industry sectors impacted by FSMA including produce growers, animal feed producers, food processors, importers and transporters.
- > Training and Education NSF provides accredited training programs to assist you with understanding, implementing and maintaining a FSMA-compliant food safety system. Our training programs provide tools for continual improvement of your systems so that you can be the FSMA-compliant market leader you aim to be.

Consider NSF your one-stop shop for consulting, auditing and training. No matter where you are in the FSMA process, NSF offers a suite of services that, together or separately, will assist your business in achieving and maintaining regulatory compliance.
